Crowds of Depositors Clamoring for Their Money.

Orowan of excited people justle each other on the sidewalk in front of the three banking offices of Bernard Weinberger to-day. Anxious inquiries for the banker and his "manager." Moses Herschdorfer, are asked and unanawered. There is wringing of hands and tears, for these people were depositors in the banks or had intrusted money to the banker to be sent to their waiting friends on the other side of the ocean.
Money saved by dint of the most extreme frugality to pay the steamship passage of loved ones from crowded Europe to America.

Bernard Weinberger had been in the banking, brokerage, exchange and steamship ticket business on the east side for ten years. He had become beloved by all his neighbors, He was their banker, counsellowe and friend.
Lodges and other organizations were named in his honor, and he was considered a very rich man.

Court, this morning in an application for an attachment against the property of Hernard Weinberger.

This affidavit states that the affiant saw and talked with the missing banker at the Grand Street Bank on Wednesday, and saw him again in the street, much agitated, Wednesday night.

All the clerks agree, however, that the banker has not been at either bank since Aug. 18.

Herschdorfer lives with his wife and child at 103 Delancey street, and Mrs. Herschdorfer was the messenger who took word to the clerks shortly after daybreak yesterday telling them not to open the offices.

Sie said to-day that her husband, who is President of the synagogue in Rivington strest, eff for the synagogue yesterday morning, and had not returned, but it is learned from other sources that he left home Sunday evening, and has not been seen since.

The clerks at the banks, with the exception of A. L. Kass, manager of the Grand street office, and Ornstein, are relatives of Herschdorfer.

Max Ornstein, who had been a cierk in the Essex street office four years, and who is open and free with all inquirers, secouts the idea that Weinberger has absoonded. He says:

"The fact of the matter seems to be that Mr. Weinberger foresaw the fait of the distillery, and it was all his own money, every dollar.

"I do not think Mr. Herschdorfer has absconded, either. I do not see how he could have got away with money enough to make it worth while. After the failure of the distillery, and even before that, the people doing business with us smelled trouble, and for the past two or three weeks they have been calling for money all the time, so that there was more money going out than there was coming in."

"I do not suppose there are more than 250 or 300 depositors now, and the average of their deposits is very small, only a very few having more than $100 in the bank.

The stramsing Sanle, which arrived yesterday, brought gold as follows: (180,008) marks to Heldelbach, lekel-beiner & Co.; 150,000 to L. Von Hoffman & Co.; 16,000 to Hanover National Bank, and 38,000 to Muller, Schall & Co.

The Umbria brought 15,000 to Bank of Montreal, Montreal, Canada; (1,80) to Alex Bowman, care Bank of Montreal, Coicago, Ill.; (10,000 to Fowler Bros., and 47,000 to W. M. McKay, St. John, N. R.

The consignments on the La Chamyears ago and not long afterwards Mr. Lake married Emily Moeller, his stenographer, the present Mrs. Lake. After Mr. Lake became insane his wife was appointed custodian of the children. Mrs. Martha Lake-Mayo, Lake's mother, and Mrs. Etta Helfer, the nother of his first wife, are now trying to get possession of the children. They retained as counsel Gen. Thomas Ewing. who obtained the order requiring Mrs.

Lake to answer before the Staten Island Surrogate to-day.

The two grandmothers of the children alleged that Mrs. Lake was not a proper person to have charge of them, and moreover that having an income of only $40 per month from her husband's estate, she was not able to care for them properly. Since Mr. Lake's second marriage, it is said that he has been estranged from his family.

Emile Klaber, a pisno manufacturer of this city.

It was alleged that in May last when she rented the little tyy-covered cottags at Fort Hill, S. i., where she now lives with her step-children. Mr. Klaber ac-companied her and guaranteed the rent and became a bearder in the family

Grace & Co., $1,500; Flint & Co., $2,000; A. M. Capen's Sons, $1,150; Kusshardt, $3,600; D. A. de Lima, $300; C. E. Lindauer, $500; Piza, Nephews & Co., $2,700; Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co., $1,500; Maitland, Phelps & Co., $5,500.

The unfavorable character of the Aubased their right to the custody of the children.

It was said that they employed detectives to watch Mrs. Lake and Mr. Klaber. The detectives found that on Iuly 30 Mr. Klaber went to the Hotel Castleton, which is only a very short distance from Mrs. Lake's cottage, and registered as "Emile Klaber. London, England." He had room 408. On the same day Mrs. Lake registered there under her own name, and occupied room 248.

While staying at the Hotel Castleton Mr. Klaber frequently went out driving with Mrs. Lake, it was alleged, and on Aug. 13 their horse became frightened and the carriage was overturned. Mr. Lake was only slightly hurt, but Mr. Klaber was badly bruised, and was taken to Mrs. Lake's cottage.

When the two grandmothers went to the cottage about a week after this accident and demanded the custody of the children Mrs. Lake refused to give them the.

The children said they preferred to live with their stepmother and also refused to go with their grandnarents.

Both Mrs. Lake and Mr. Klaber have denied the truth of the stories which have been circulated about them.
